Impure Blood

Manifests itself in hives, pimples, boils and other eruptions which distigure the face and cause pain and annoyance. By purifying the blood Hood's Sarsaparilla ompletely cures these troubles and clears he skin. Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes the skin, that tired, drowsy feeling so general at this season and gives strength and vigor.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye today. $1; six for $5.

Hood's Pills tion. Price 25 cents.

BIG VESSELS FOR THE LAKES. They Will, Ere Long, Do the Great Bulk of the Carrying Trade. Plans already formed settle the question whether lake steamships 400 feet long or upward, with a capacity of carrying 6,000 tons of freight at a load, will be common after the opening of the channels twenty feet deep through all the shallows between Duluth and Chicago, and the ports of Lake Erie. There is no longer a doubt that such monster vessels will rapidly multiply within the next few years, and they are certain to do a great part of the carrying trade of the lakes, perhaps most of it, before the end of the century. The steamships already contracted for and those which are certain to be built | teristic that it will be given entire. before next spring will undoubtedly so far surpass all vessels now in use in ability to make money at low rates for freight that other vessel owners will be forced to follow the pioneers in this latest step forward in the construction of splendid lake carriers. Even an over-supply of tonnage such as is very likely to be the result, will not prevent the work of replacing small craft with steamers of the largest size from ging on steadily. In one sense it will hasten the change, says Cleveland Leader. Only the biggest vessels can make money in such seasons of general over-competition for cargoes, and in order to continue the business the owners of old boats must let'them go and put in commission steamships equal to any on the great lakes.

FIGS AND THISTLES.

The devil and whisky are always on Prayer is not prayer until it becomes communion with God. The Christian may lose his gold, but he can never lose his God.

The devil hurts us most when he smiles us through those we love. When God puts a good man in the dark, it is to give somebody light.

God can say things in the flery furnace he couldn't speak in heaven. Job sinned not with his tongue because there was no sin in his heart. When the mountains are east into the sea, God's hand is under them.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Look after the Back: A Fall, a Strain, a Constant Sitting or Stooping Position Brings Backache-Do You Know This Means the Kidneys are Affected ?

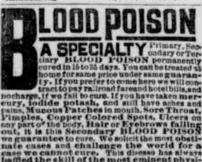

How few people realize when their back begins to ache that it is a warning pro-vided by nature to tell you that the kidneys are not working properly. You have a severe fall, you strain yourself lifting or perhaps you are compelled to maintain a pitting restroying resistion for long interition for long intervals at a time, your back begins to ache then your head, you become listless, tired and weary, but do you understand the real cause? We think not, else you would not use plasters and liniment on the back, ready to communicate-and from any which only relieve but do not reach the cause. If you would rid yourself of the pain and cure the root of the trouble, at the same time save many years of suffer-ing and perhaps life itself, you will take a cidney remedy that has been tried and proven that it will cure.

Mr. John Robsoin of 661 Russell Street, Detroit, says: "As a result of exposure during the war I have suffered ever since with rheumatism and kidney trouble.

Pains would start in my hip and go around to my back. Highly colored urine denoted kidney disorder. The pain around to my back. Highly colored urine denoted kidney disorder. The pain in my back was often so bad I had to give up work until the severity of the attack passed away. I have used many liniments and other things, but received very little relief. Some time ago I started using Doan's Kidney Pills and they have worked wonderful change in me. My back is all right now and I owe it all to the almost magical influence of Doan's Kidney Pills. Mr. Robsoin was a member of the Fifty first Illinois Regiment, which served through the war with honor and distinction. Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers—price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name,

CHAPTER IX .- (Continued.)

The letter was from her father. It said not a word about his own recent illness, and was otherwise so charac-

"MY DEAREST DAUGHTER: I am thankful you and Adolf went to the Springs, beyond the atmosphere of this cholera-smitten city. The doctors say it is declining. I am in my usual health, and my only anxiety is for you —and Adolf. Of course, business is dull, and I have abundant time to write this letter-the first I have ever had occasion to write you. I have had you with me always. "Before you return, I wish you quietly to find out all you can about the people at the Springs, without show ing that you are anxious to know.

'First-what is the full name of the proprietor and of all his family? "How long have they all lived at the Springs, and do they own the prop-"How valuable is the property? Is the hotel well patronized, and by what kind of people;

"Is the proprietor and are his family members of good society? "Last-and most important-What noted incident, or accident, or bereavement has fallen upon any of the family in the last twelve or thirteen years? And if any find out all about it-names, dates, effect upon others-in short everything.

"Hy complying fully with my wish you will oblige your old father very much, and possibly benefit yourself." [A pen had been drawn through the last four words to obliterate them, but Vivette made them out. 1

Take your time, and do not return till I write for you.

'Remember me to Adolf, and believe me, as ever, your loving father."

"P. S .- Write when you can in the

Here was food for thought. What could her father want with the history he sought? She could not imagine; but she resolved to obey his instructions to the letter, and trust to her father's prudence and to time. She already had a general knowledge of the Blake family history, and for greater acparticulars; and she iotted down from day to day every item obtained from Mrs. Blake, from her maid. Liza - always other authentic sources.

In the early afternoon Adolf came in and proposed a drive. He was looking pale, and his little black eyes shone from their retirement in the depths of their sockets like diamonds behind glass. "The doctor says I need air and sun shine; and a drive over the hills with you, my sauveur, will renew my lifeyou will go?"

"Certainly, Cousin Adolph, with pleasure."

They were soon out over the hills, with only himself to drive. Vivette protested, but he declared himself strong enough; and, in fact, he wanted to be alone with Vivette.

As they drove gaily from the door through the evergreens and down past the stables, one colored hostler said to

"Looks like he'd bin sick, Shady; but he kin handle 'em. Isn't the lady jist too purty!"

At the laundry old Winny was at the door. Putting up her hand to shade her old eyes, she said to herself: "Uh! Uh!" [Nasal exclamation.]

WHY, COUSIN ADOLF Gentlemen on the veranda had aleady expressed themselves; and Molier. Vivette's verdict as to 'good looks" was unanimous, while Everywhere it appeared to be assumed that-cousins or no cousins-Molier, at least, was up to his eyes in

A mile from the hotel Adolf passed Sulphur creek, and stopped the carriage to admire a diminutive cascade which poured out of a cedar-crowned limestone cliff, and dashed itself to spray on the rocks below. At the base of the cliff, under a little spurting stream, some ingenious boy had fixed a mimic water mill which lifted and dropped by turns, a small hammer on the bottom of an old tin pan. Thump, thump, thump, all day and all night long, the busy bammer struck the tin tambour with rhythmic blows. "So beat my heart when the cholera fell upou me," said Adolf. Not quite so loud, cousin," replied Vivette.

"I am afraid, my dear Vivette, you left all poetic sentiment behind you when you came to the Springs? Now my heart is beating again; will you not minister to it as willingly and successfully as before?"

Why, cousin Adolf! You are not pale now, but blushing red! What can I do for you?" said Vivette, with a questionable smile. "I can bear this suspense no longer," passionately declared Adolf. "Say you will be mine, Vivette, and end it now.

"I can not say it."

"You mean you will not?" " "I feel, cousin Adolf, that an honest candor is best for both of us; and, while it troubles me to tell you so-you can never be my husband, Adolfnever." His countenance fell in sheer despair.

He felt that these words would never be recalled. And, assuming a selfcontrol which he had not, he said in reply:
"That is straightforward at least;

and I ought to thank you. But you should have left me to die of enolera. But I too am a Molier, and henceforth my lips are sealed. We will be cousins if we never can be more. Then, cracking his whip, he drove off lown the valley, over the stony road by the bridge, and round the tobacco fields back to the hotel. Not a word was spoken by either on the way. "Uh, uh!" said old Winny, as they ed the laundry, "he's done go shucked, he is!" The hostlers looked at each other as Molier drove rapidly by, and, through the evergreens, up to the hotel door; "De gal's shucked him, shoa!

Gentlemen on the veranda looked insignificantly at each other, meaning much, but saying nothing. Molier's tell-tale face betrayed him almost as plainly as words.

On the next day after Adolf Molier had heard his fate with certainty, he began to think of bringing his stay at the Springs to an end; and, going into Dr. Goforth's office, was received with unexpected courtesy. On asking for his bill, Dr. Goforth urged him to be reated, saying that it would be unsafe for Melier to attempt a journey without a few more days' rest. Molier was in a humor to accept the doctor's invitation, and soon found that, under a rough exterior, Dr. Goforth was really a warm-hearted gentleman.

"You thought me pretty crusty," be said to Molier; "but you had the universal panic, and 'it was necessary to get rid of that first of all."

"But doctor," replied Adolf with a smile, "do you talk to all your patients that way?" "Oh, no, I treat each according to his temperament. I saw you were a gentleman and sensitive to insult; and I knew you would die if I did not drive off your panie. No man is big enough to hold two conflicting passions at once, so I roused your indignation, and let your sense of insult drive out panic -you understand?"

'Certainly, doctor, I do now "You are of the New Orleans Moliera. think?" said the doctor, interroga-

Yes; do you know them?" "I know of them. They stand 'A No. 1.' But how unfortunate they should generally be small. Now that doesn't hurt a woman, but it is bad for "What is that, doctor? I hav not thought of it."

"Because a little man never gets credit for half he really is, and a large man gets credit for much more than he is, in most instances. And, phrenology or no phrenology, there's something in the influence of magnitude, and people feel it without knowing why,"

"I guess that's so, doctor," said "Of course it's so. You yourself never get half the credit you are enone gentleman had said: "Twould titled to as a man of education and be a shame for that cat-eyed cousin to strong native ability. And strange enough, women are more controlled by this matter of size as an indication of superiority than men. Curious, Isn't it?

"By Jove, that's so, doctor; I know

He thought of the stalwart arms which pitched him out of the window and afterward pulled him out of the

Dr. Goforth saw instantly that he to change the drift of conversation. "You were prejudiced against calomel?" he asked. "I was, doctor. I am not now." "I should think not! it brought you right up, soon as a little stuck.

Then the doctor dilated upon "the great remedy" for awhile, and both gentlemen drifted into general conversation, until Adolf left for supper, surprised and pleased with the doctor who had cured him by substituting anger for fear.

After supper, Adolf was sitting in his room alone with his thoughts and his eigar, when Mr. Sam Blake, the acting host of the hotel, made him a call. After congratulations on Molier's recovery and general conversation, Blake said to Adolf:

"There is a gentleman of your name at Cincinnati, I think?"

"Yes; my father's brother." "Lives-or did live many years ago on Market street?" "Yes; Lower Market. He lives there "Have you seen much of him?" "Not until recently. I have spent some months at his house before com-still.

ing here. "Ever hear him speak of an idiot boy named Joe?"

"Joe Gust?" "He lived with a man named Gust." "I rather think I have heard of him. He is no idiot now, by a good deal. Got struck by lightning, and so came to himself again.' "You don't tell me so! Lightning?" "Electricity-all the same. Was at the big show, the 'Infernal Regions,' touched the bars and got shocked so badly he regained his senses." "And his memory?" inquired Blake, with much and manifest earnestness. "Not wholly, as I am infort ed. Could not remember his name, except 'Little Joe,' and couldn't tell the names of his kindred, nor where they lived."

"What became of him?" "Gust, the gentleman who took care of the boy, adopted him as his son, educated him, and he is now a lawyer and a fine-looking man. Strange, isn't

"Have you heard from your uncle has he escaped cholera?"

"Yes; he says in a letter that he is in usual health. Do you know anything of the boy-now a man?"

"Nothing at all," replied Blake. "I once heard of him while in Cincinnati." "He thinks himself a Kentuckian and is rather proud of it." "How does he come to think that-do you know?" 'My uncle thinks it is guess work But he is a man of spirit, and does no discredit to the claim.'

Blake feigned indifference and soon

On the next afternoon, old Tom Blake fell down paralyzed. From the hips down, all sensation was gone; and Dr. Goforth found other very grave symptoms, and advised the old man to make final arrangement of his affairs for the last journey. "Doctor," said Blake, deliberately and firmly; "my will has been made for years, and I see no reason for altering it." "Where is it, father?" inquired Sam, who had just come in. "It is in safe hands, Sam; you and Myra are left in joint possession of everything until-

"Until what, father?"

"Never mind, I shall make no change.

"Let him rest, Sam," said the doctor The less he is worried the more prospect that he may revive and temporarily recover." Sam Blake went out moodily, and the old man asked for Myra. When Mrs. Blake came in she was crying. The old man took her hand kindly in his own, and said: "You have been a true woman, Myra; and poor Jeff knew better than I. Where's the paper I gave you to She drew an envelope from her bosom and gave it to him with the seal "Open it," said the dying man; 'quick! I am going fast."

She broke the seal and by his instruction read:

"Memorandum from Joo's medal: 'Little Joe: June 20, 18I3.' [Signed] "JOSEPH GUST.

The old man could barely say: "Go to Cincinnat! yourself; find Joe-" when the paralysis stopped ms speech, and an hour later, his life.

Old Tom Blake was buried with due ceremony and little sorrow, except upon the part of Mrs. Blake, and some of the slaves, to whom he had been, on the whole, not an unkind master. The will was found in the keeping of a friend of the old man-Judge Walpole; was duly proven and no contest made.

(TO BE CONTINUED.) Uncle Josh Defeated.

Lawyer-Well, my young friend, your Uncle Josh determined that you should be a farmer, or get nothing from him. He did not leave you a cent of money, but he willed you his plow, cultivator, mowing machine, thrasher, portable sawmill, stonecrusher, roaderaper and stump-puller.

Young Scribbler-All right, I'll sell Lawyer-He has provided against that. You cannot sell, or even rent them. You must use them yourself. Young Scribbler-Very well. I will. Lawyer-On the old farm?

Young Scribbler-"No; I'll write a play and use them on the stage.

HIS VIEW OF THE THING.

The Little Girl Escaped, but He Was Battered Into a State of Reckless Ruin. The wheelman who was scorching through Washington Park rounded one of the curves just as a little girl about 4 years old started to run across the road in front of him, says Chicago Tribugt. He set his teeth, turned his had touched a tender spot, and sought | bicycle sharply to the left, and flew out | and knowledge of the physician. I was of the saddle in one direction, while the machine went tumbling in another, trary I can hardly state the exact time the little girl escaping by a hair's breadth. "You careless brute!" exclaimed a "You careless brute!" exciaimed a sharp-voiced matron, who came running up. "You monkey on two wheels! What do you mean by racing about the park in this dare-devil kind of a way? Havan't you mean the care a child and never dreamed of the sufferings in store for me. I complained to What do you mean by racing about the park in this dare-devil kind of a way? Haven't you got any consideration for other folks? Don't you know you're always liable to run over somebody. Do way parents and they concluded that in time I would outgrow my trouble, but when they heard me groaning during my sleep they became thoroughly. you want to scare people to death?

Some people haven't got the sense they were born with. If I had my way about and was soon unable to move about and

'Yes, ma'am," replied the young man, who had gathered himself up and was advertised patent medicines with but making an inventory of his damages.

"For twelve long years I was thus a "For twelve long years" without rescratch, while I've got a skinned elbow, a bruised knee, a sprained ankle, and a lame shoulder. There's a piece of skin as big as a half-dollar gone from the palm of my hand, my hair is full of mended. If I'm not kicking ma'am, I don't think you ought to kick." He picked up his broken bicycle, put it over his shoulder, and limped slowly away in the direction of the nearest repair shop.

SCORE ONE FOR MRS. BLOOMER. Her Trousers Were Responsible for the Dragoons' Song in 'Patience.' A prominent woman suffrage advocate said the other day to a New York Press representative: "Do you know that W. S. Gilbert, who wrote 'The Mikado,' 'Pinafore,' 'Patience,' and those other comic operas, got his idea for a song in 'Patience' from a woman's suffrage advocate who was active in New York forty years ago? "The song is 'When I first put this iniform on.' You know it is sung by the heavy dragoons, with a 'Yes, Yes,' chorus, and is one of the prettiest things in a pretty opera. Well, when the bloomer fashion was first brought into notice, in the fifties, Mrs. Bloomer wore the garb, and some one wrote a song that was supposed to be in her words, 'When I first put this uniform on.' It referred to bloomers, of course, in that "When Gilbert wrote the libretto he saw there was a good opportunity in this song. So he wrote new words and Sullivan wrote the music, retaining the old refrain. "This is the truth, but I do not think it is generally known.

Indians Dancing for Rain.

The Sac and Fox Indians have adopted a new method to get rain. They appointed one day last week for all their for rain, and at the same time they inthe festivity for the much-needed showthat they still dance that rain may still saying that the rains would flood the low lands.

No Aquariums Served. "This hasn't a sign of clam in it," said the guest who had ordered clam table. chowder. "It's a swindle, that's what "Excuse me, sir," responded the waitchowder, not an aquarium."

JOVIAL THOUGHTS.

Friend-Do much fishing nowadays? Honest Lad-Lots of it. Friend-Catch many? Honest Lad-Um-I don't fish for fish. I just fisht for fun-see?

Riggs-There was one thing I could buy as cheap at Surfville-by-the-Sea as I could at home. Biggs-What in the world was it? Riggs-Postage stamps. Charming Widow-And what are you doing nowadays? He-Oh, simply amusing myselt. Looking out for No. 1. And you? Charming Widow-

Looking out for No. 2. Critic-I tell you what it is, Mr. Mc Daub, those ostriches are simply superb. You shouldn't paint anything but birds. Artist (disgusted)—Those are not ostriches. They are angels! She (after a passage at arms)-You oved me then! He-I love you now She (resignedly)-Ah, well, I suppose if a woman can get a man to love her now and then she should be content! Charles Frohman is credited with say ing to a vacillating friend: "My dear boy, observe the postage stamp; its emnly, "do you —" "No." interrupted usefulness depends upon its ability to the irreverent youth; "in the first place. stick to one thing until it gots there." What is verse as distinguished from poetry?" asked the inquisite man. "Verse," replied the magazine editor, after he had pondered, "Is the term applied by any poet to the work of his contemporaries. Traveler-Madam, can I get a drink here? Lady of the House-Certainly.

There's the well; help yourself. eler (with a courtly gesture)-Madam, you misunderstand me. I don't wish to wash my hands; I wast a drink.
"Of-of course, Mr. Smith, I feel very flattered by your offer; but-bat you can hardly expect a decided answer, as have known you for so short a time." "Well, what am I to 40? All the girls

Boyd Decker, the manager of the Savoy hotel, in speaking of a flashy. thowy woman who was inclined to muddle her remarks in two languages, said: "Her linguistic attainments al-ways suggest the idea that she must have learned her English in France, Men of might are often those who might and her French in England." and her French in England."

A Slave Frem Boyhood.

(From the Red Wing, Minn., Republican.)

"I am now twenty-four years old," said Edward Swanson, of White Rock, Goodhue County, Minn., to a Republican representative, "and as you can see I am not very large of stature. When I was eleven years old I became afflicted with a sickness which baffled the skill not taken suddenly ill but on the conwhen it began. The first symptoms were pains in my back and restless nights. The disease did not trouble me it. I'd stop this business mighty quick. finally became confined continually to my bed. The best doctors that could be had were consulted, but did nothing for sufferer in constant agony without re-spite, abscesses formed on my body in rapid succession and the world indeed looked very dark to me. About this time when all hope was gone and noth-ing seemed left but to resign myself to palm of my hand, my hair is full of dirt. I've ruined a suit of ciothes, and it will cost me $15 to have the machine reported. If I'm not kicking ma'am I grasping at a straw, in sheer desperation I concluded to make one more tempt—not to regain my health (I dare not to hope so much) but if possible to ease my pain.

"I bought a box of the pills and they seemed to do me good. I felt encouraged and continued their use: After taking six boxes I was up and able to walk around the house. I have not felt so well for thirteen years as during the past year. Only one year have I taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and I am able now to do chores and attend to light duties. "Do I hesitate to let you publish what I have said? No. Why should I? It is the truth and I am only too glad to let other sufferers know my experience. It may help those whose cup of misery is as full to-day as mine was in the past." Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements neces-sary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They build up the blood, and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all drug-gists, or direct by mail from Da Wil-liams' Medicine Company, Schenectady,

BIRTHPLACE OF POTATO.

A Missouri Town Claims the Honor et First Producing It.

Jackson county promises to be famous in history as the birthplace of the Irish potato. Some of the local botanists of Independence have discovered this fact, and have traced the lineage of the vegetable, which is now known to every table in the world as the "Irish potato," back to its birthplace, Little Santa Fe, in the southern part of this county, says Kansas City Star. The botanists give the name of the plant from which the potato grew as "dioscorea batata," and feel confident in their assertion that the histribes to meet at Perry, Ok., to dance tory of the potato can be traced back to the town of Little Santa Fe. Dr. Balvited several neighboring tribes to join lard, a well-known botanist and geologist, had in his possession yesterday a ers. Large numbers of Indians met plant which he claimed to be a speciand commenced dancing till Sunday's men of the "dioscorea batata," found flood came, and this so buoyed them up at Little Santa Fe. By tracing the plant back some 300 years the doctor come. Before they commenced their says that undoubtedly the dioscorea festivals, they moved their wigwams batata was the progenitor of the sofrom the bottoms to the high lands, called Irish potato. It appears that the aborigines of this section knew the art of propagation of plants by cultivation from their wild state, and by such knowledge produced the tuber now so generally in use and found on every

"It is a matter of history," said the doctor, "that the potato was first used as an edible by the Indians near what er, who is too good for that business, is now known as Little Santa Fe, Jack-"but we only undertake to serve a son county, Mo. From there it became an article of barter. The edible was so palatable that its use spread rapidly and became common among the Indians in Virginia. The potato fell into the hands of Sir Walter Raleigh in Virginia, who recognized a good thing when he saw it. Sir Walter took it on one of his trips to Europe, and he reason of the soil and climate of Ireland it at once became a staple article of food, hence the name Irish potato."

LAUGHING GAS.

"I'm going to marry her right off."
Why, what's your hurry?" "My salary isn't large enough to stand an engagement."

Rich pork dealer (to attractive widow)-"Madam, two thousand hogs and a faithful heart I lay at your feet. Please take us in." A Feroclous Husband.-"Yes, my dear whenever we have words he behaves like a perfect savage." How so?" "He makes for his club!" A General Denial.-"My son," began the clerical-looking stranger, quite ac emnly, "do you ---" "No," interrupted

I ain't-and, second, I don't. Worse than Cholera.-"When your practicing friend across the way has learned how to play the cornet he will entertain the whole neighborhood, sald Mrs. Brown. "Yes," said Mrs.

Jones; "but by that time there won't be any neighborhood here. Poor Little Thing!-"What's the mat-ter, Molly?" asked Colonel Yerger of his little 6-year-old daughter. "Pa, my mocking bird is dead." "Well, never mind, Molly; I'll buy you another one. "I am calm enough now, but when saw that poor little dead bird I could have cried like a child," said Molly. Too Much Toil.-First tramp-"If ? had my own way, I'd have three hunwho've known me longer have refused dred and sixty-five national holidays in the year." Second tramp-"You would, eh? Then there would be one working day every four years. Oh, you are a nice one, you are! You would make a galley slave of the poor laboring man, wouldn't you?"